Activity Report – Celebration of Eco-friendly Diwali

Diwali, also known as Deepawali, is one of the most widely celebrated festivals in India. The festival will be celebrated on October this year. On this day, people decorate their houses with traditional lamps, burst firecrackers, and exchange sweets.

With the festival of Diwali around the corner, some students from department of chemistry celebrate an eco-friendly festival of light and urging others also to shun the usage of firecrackers and student also aware to local society to celebrate ecofriendly Diwali without use of firecracker. The Head of the department aware to student by deliver talk on ecofriendly Diwali and said that the meaning of Diwali has entirely changed. People celebrate it as an excuse to burst crackers. The crackers not only produce noise pollution, it produces toxic gases which produce air pollution. The noise is hazardous for people and animals as the sounds are deafening and surely weaken the hearing of organisms and the smoke causes difficulty in breathing and causes respiratory problems. It also tampers with your vision as the gunpowder settles in the air and enters our system which is toxic to us.

To prevent all this, and to celebrate the true essence of Diwali, we should not burst crackers but light diyas, candles, paper lamps and light decorative lights. With global warming rising rapidly, it is in our hands to reduce carbon emissions and pledge to live sustainably and in harmony with nature. Diwali is a festival of happiness and celebrating your union with your families. We should celebrate Diwali peacefully with a better conscience and be a model example for the society. It is in your hands to be the better person.

7.1.5 – Green campus initiatives

1. Restricted entry of automobiles

The use of vehicles in the campus is strictly banned. The security guard at the gate monitors the same during college hours. This has helped to reduce carbon emissions in the campus and to maintain an eco-friendly environment in the campus. The oxygen availability in the campus area has enhanced due to lot of plantation. 'Say No' to vehicle posters are displayed at the entrance. This has restricted the entry of automobiles in the campus.

2. Use of Public Transport by Students

Most of students in the college have to use public transport as their means of conveyance because they live in nearby villages. Most of the students come from the tribal areas which are connected by buses or private taxi. The students reach college either by state transport buses which run during the college timings for student facilitation or by private taxi which run in large numbers en route.

3. Pedestrian Friendly pathways

Pedestrian friendly pathways are made in the campus. Beneficiaries use them as shorter roads to reach their destinations by using them. These are constructed around every laboratories and start close to the entrance of the college thereby minimizing the use of the main road.

4. Landscaping with trees and plants

The college has a very beautiful campus with ample vegetation maintaining a pollution free environment in the campus. Trees are planted every year in the month of July by the plantation drive organized by the college for staff and students. An orchard containing guava and amla trees is well maintained and the college staff is the beneficiary of the fruits which are totally free of pesticides. Plants on either side of the roads give a beautiful look to the campus and thereby provide a healthy environment for students and staff. Many plants of herbal significance also exist in the botanical garden. The trees are labelled with small boards giving their vernacular and scientific names and other details.

5. Ban of Plastic in the campus

Plastic use is totally banned in the campus. Students and staff take a pledge to that effect every year. Plastic wrappers are properly disposed and those found guilty have to pay fine as decided by the Principal and higher authorities.
